

International Workshop

End-of-Life in Prison: Talking Across Disciplines and Across Countries

5th/6th December 2014

University of Fribourg, Switzerland
Pérolles II, B130

What a good end-of-life (EOL) means, is a particularly relevant question in the context of confinement and prison. Most of the questions and issues raised by EOL for those living in liberty also apply to the correctional setting. However, the institutional particularities and logics of the prison create unique barriers and make it difficult in practice to reconcile concerns in regard to EOL – like care and comfort – with the mandate of corrections – confinement and punishment.

more information: www.eolinprison.ch
registration until 25th of November: irene.marti@unifr.ch

Friday 5th December 2014

08:45 Ueli Hostettler, Nicolas Queloz, Marina Richter (University of Fribourg)
Introduction

09:00 Alison Liebling (University of Cambridge)
The meaning of ending life in prison

10:30 Coffee break

11:00 Caroline Devynck, Sonja Snacken, Wim Distelmans (Vrije Universiteit Brussels)
End-of-life and mental suffering in prisons

12:30 Lunch

14:00 Irene Marti (University of Fribourg)
End-of-life in closed prisons in Switzerland: institutional logic between “care” and “custody”

15:30 Coffee break

16:00 Aline Chassagne, Aurelie Godard (CHRU Besançon)
PARME study: Palliative care in prison. The intersection of inmates and patients

17:30 End of the programme (Friday)

Saturday 6th December 2014

09:00 Stefan Bérard, Nicolas Queloz
End-of-life in Swiss prisons: legal and criminological aspects

10:30 Coffee break

11:00 Mary Turner (University of Lancaster)
Palliative care in prison: practical and emotional challenges for custodial staff, healthcare professionals and fellow prisoners

12:30 Final discussion

13:30 Lunch

14:30 End of the conference